NEW FALL SUITS in General, but More Particularly Our $25.00 Suits

PRELIMINARY presentation; the first complete showing, we believe, this season in Richmond. And what is more altogether fascinating than the "first" Fall Suits? These harbingers of the fashion-fate of a new season bring many and varied ideas from every artist in the craft, and await only Madame (or Miss) Richmond's approval.

And what is fashion, after all, but the approval of critics in mode, the acceptance of connoisseurs in style-indeed, such taste and discrimination as those who plan and select for Miller & Rhoads always seem to exercise intuitively and unfailingly?

With interest keenly alive, one sees | a newer, more artistic handling of in this showing of Sults that a new | slogan is proposed by

Skirts Not So Short as Some, nor Yet So Wide as Others

So, a new silhouette is cast by the Suit Skirt, for though it retains fullness, it rejects to a degree the "flare" of spring. Or, to say it differently, new treatments produce an effect of straight lines, though fullness remains. Box-plaited all round, this Skirt gives a delightfully youthful appearance to the suit of blue velcur, which is one of those shown at $25.00.

Another Suit of navy blue gabardine has touches of near-seal that make a most attractive effect. The skirt of this suit is a new yoke top, with wide girdle effect.

A similar Suit in a new Green Velour Cloth is shown at $25.00.

Suit Coats Grow More in Length, and Many More Form-Fitting in Line

This does not mean a return to the fitted redingote, at all. It announces lines, which allows the suit coat to follow gracefully the lines at the waist and to fall in ripples almost to threequarter length. In a Broadcloth Suit here at $25.00.

A most uncommon idea is presented in a Coat that fastens at the throat in four distinct ways. It also has a nobby knapsack effect back and belt. 'The arrangement of the shirring and pockets of the skirt is as clever as it is new. In a Suit of Checked Wool Velour at $25.00.

The Mode Materializes in Many Weaves, but Assumes Unanimously Sombre Colors

Some highly interesting fabrics are shown for fall-many new, and others are variations of well-known and much liked materials, such as Broadcloth, Gabardine, Poplin, Serge, Velour and Fancy Mixtures.

Colors, according to Rodier, will be dark for street suits, much blue, both navy and midnight; also, brown, Burgundy, plum, a new shade of green, fancy gray, black, etc.

This touches only on the high lights of the new modes in Suits - those features that presage a change and present a departure from spring and summer. But there are countless little touches, details, at sleeve, collar, belt; new yokes that cannot be adequately described, that needs must be seen to be appreciated.

It is a fact-well known far and near-that

We Specialize on Twenty-Five Dollar Suits

that in style, quality of materials, linings and workmanship our $25.00 Suits are unexcelled, and that we carry the largest and most complete assortment (at this price) in the South.
